PRESIDENT ASKS WIDE EXPANSION OF SECURITY ACT

Sends Special Message to Congress; Against Un- sound Panaceas

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today wide expansion of the social security act and warned at the same time against "turning to untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

The expansion program he called for included beginning old age insurance benefits sooner and liberalizing them in the early years, affording greater protection to dependent children, extended unemployment and old age protection as rapidly as possible to "all of our people" and increasing in some instances federal grants-in-aid to states.

He also proposed that states receiving federal aid be required to institute merit systems for the personnel of agencies handling social security funds.

"I cannot too strongly urge the wisdom of building upon the principles contained in the present social security act in affording greater protection to our people," the president said, "rather than turning to untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

No Reference to Pensions
His message made no direct reference, however, to old age pension proposals.

The president emphasized the desirability of affording greater old age security. He described as sound a "two-fold approach" recommended by the social security board on this point.

"One way," he said, "is to begin the payment of monthly old age insurance benefits sooner, and to liberalize the benefits to be paid in early years."

"The other way is to make proportionately larger federal grants in aid to those states with limited fiscal capacities, so that they may provide more adequate assistance to those in need. This result can and should be accomplished in such a way as to involve little, if any, additional cost to the federal government. Such a method embodies a principle that may well be applied to other federal grants-in-aid."

Aid to Dependent Children
The president also described as sound two approaches recommended by the board for greater aid to dependent children.

"One way," he said, "is to extend our federal old age insurance system so as to provide regular monthly benefits not only to the aged but also to the dependent children of workers dying before reaching retirement age. The other way is to liberalize the federal grants-in-aid to the states to help finance assistance to dependent children."

Regarding the old age and unemployment compensation systems, the president said "equity and sound social policy require that the benefits be extended to all of our people as rapidly as administrative experience and public understanding permit."

Calls Payments "Liberal"
"Such an extension," he continued, "is particularly important in the case of the federal old age insurance system. Even without amendment the old age insurance benefits payable in the

Ohio Republicans Expand Purge of State Employees

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Ohio's new Republican administration expanded its state employee purge toward the 2,000-mark today as the new highway director asserted lieutenants of former Gov. Martin L. Davey destroyed personnel records in 10 of 12 highway division offices.

Robert S. Beightler, highway director for Gov. John W. Bricker's administration, said he would file removal charges against J. Matthew Carr, Davey's highway personnel director, on grounds that Carr ordered employment files destroyed Jan. 7—two days before Republicans took office.

He suspended Carr for 30 days and abolished another 46 jobs in the roads department as the new administration sought economies by "big business" practices.

The highway department prepared to discharge nearly 500 more workers this week. Since Bricker took office last Monday on a platform of an "honest and economical government" 1,115 workers have been fired, including 626 from the highway division.

L. W. Miller of Dixon Listed As Veteran Educator

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Veteran Illinois public school teachers and administrators are listed in a new state school directory distributed by John A. Wieland, superintendent of public instruction.

Miller of Lee county and John A. Hayes of Peoria county both have served since 1910 while H. B. Price of Whiteside county has held office since 1914.

Among high school and elementary school superintendents 43 were found to have served 30 years or more in the teaching profession. Available records showed the longest record, 47 years, was held by Julia J. Randolph of Canton. Josephine Clifford of Wheaton has served 45 consecutive years.

Minnie F. Balensiefer and Annie L. Smith, both of Joliet, each has served 42 years; Carrie P. O'Ziman, Bloomington, 41 years; Elizabeth Patterson, Joliet; Charlotte J. Rogan, Joliet; Harriett M. Cantrill, Springfield, 40 years each.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Parents were urged today to guard their children against chronic endemic dental fluorosis—a recently discovered disease which disfigures the teeth.

Many localities in northern Illinois are especially subject to the hazard in drinking water, Dr. Baxter said.

Wanted Quiet Sunday. Refrained From Calling Police After Murder

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Desk Sgt. Thomas Keilher said Joseph Borys, 62, walked into the Racine avenue police station today and made the announcement: "I killed a woman."

The sergeant took Borys into custody, asked a few questions and dispatched squads to the Borys home. There they found the body of Mrs. Frances Piotrowski, 49, a roomer, lying beside her bed. Borys' wife, Agnes, 62, was tending the furnace.

Medical examiners said Mrs. Piotrowski had been struck four times about the head and shoulders, probably with a hatchet. They said she apparently was killed yesterday morning.

Policeman said Mrs. Borys related how Mrs. Piotrowski rented a room two months ago and that the trio made an agreement, signed in

PROPOSE RELIEF ACTIVITIES BE IN ONE AGENCY

Economy Campaign on WPA Fund Growing in U. S. Senate

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A bi-partisan proposal to combine all relief activities in a public works department overshadowed senatorial discussion today of the $725,000,000 emergency WPA bill.

Although no effort was being made to write this suggestion in the appropriation measure, members were looking ahead to the time—only a few weeks distant—when they must decide on future relief policies in general.

The only argument over the appropriation bill itself was the amount to be authorized. There was every indication that a senate sub-committee would follow the lead of the house in cutting $150,000,000 from the $875,000,000 asked by President Roosevelt.

To Ban Politics.
The recommendation to consolidate agencies came during the week-end from a special senate unemployment committee headed by Senator Byrnes (D-SC).

Republican committeemen, although agreeing with the Democratic majority that a permanent public works department would be advisable, declared the majority did not go far enough toward taking politics out of relief.

The committee suggested legislation to ban use of relief funds for political purposes and to prevent relief officials from offering jobs or threatening discharges in order to control votes of relief workers.

There was a possibility the senate might include such a ban in the pending bill to provide funds to operate the WPA until June 30.

While administration forces were trying to restore the appropriation to the $875,000,000 recommended originally, some economy-minded senators wanted to cut it even more than the house did.

Byrd Broadens Attack.
Senator Byrd (D-Va.) broadened the economy group's attack on relief funds into a fight against the whole administration spending program. He wrote Chairman Marriner of the Federal Reserve board:

"Nine years of deficits very largely financed by bank credits should shake even your confidence in the value of deficits as financial magic in making business prosperity."

Eccles, a champion of "deficit spending" to promote recovery, had criticized a recent speech by Byrd advocating drastic economy and reduced taxes. Associates said Byrd's reply was timed to come out when the relief bill started through the senate.

Burned Bricks May Help Erect College Building

Alton, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Slightly burned bricks, at $5 apiece, may help erect a new administration building for Shurtleff College.

Fire destroyed the roof and interior of the 4-story, nearly 97-year-old structure, Saturday night at a loss estimated at $50,000. The college carried $52,000 insurance on the building.

A faculty member suggested today the bricks, because of their historical sentiment, might be in demand as souvenirs. The instructor, whose name was not disclosed, said a similar plan proved successful when Hiram College at Hiram, Ohio, was destroyed by fire a few years ago.

President C. H. Coleman said classes would not be interrupted. Origin of the fire was not determined.

Well Behaved

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Billy Schweinsberg has a pet even more scholarly and devoted than Mary's legendary little lamb.

Billy, who is 7, cultivated his friendship for his new pet—Blackie—in Lincoln park with a sack of peanuts and now they're so chummy Billy had Blackie as his Sunday dinner guest.

After dinner Billy played the piano and Blackie cawed a little off-time in thanks for his steak dinner.

Blackie doesn't follow Billy to school—he meets him at his home and hops on the lad's shoulder for the trek to classes. He didn't miss one day last week. He was taken into the schoolroom on two occasions and his conduct was termed far superior to that of Mary's misbehaved pet.

When Blackie isn't playing with Billy, he's around the Lincoln park bird sanctuary with some other crows teasing the inmates.

BLAZE DESTROYED THREE BUILD- INGS LAST NIGHT

Principal Loss in Sup- plies Housed in Old Wood Structures

Rantoul, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—A three-man board of inquiry sought today to determine the cause of a fire which razed three buildings at Chanutte Field, midwest training station of the U. S. Army Air Corps last night, causing damage estimated by army officials at more than a million dollars.

The supply depot, guard house and fire department were destroyed by the flames, which spread out of control shortly after they were discovered by one of the post's guards.

"Our loss will be well over a million dollars in supplies alone," said Lieut. O. E. Henderson, post adjutant.

The wooden buildings were constructed in 1917 as temporary structures. No estimate of their value was given by the post commandant.

Fanned by a strong northwest wind, the flames raced through the structures which lined the north edge of the field. Falling embers fired the headquarters building nearby several times.

Three Prisoners Rescued

Three prisoners were rescued from the guard house. Power lines were burned and for several hours the post was without lights. Hangars on the west side of the field, which held 30 planes, were not endangered.

It took the combined efforts of firemen from Champaign, Paxton, Rantoul and Urbana and the more than 1,200 men stationed at the field, working two hours, to bring the fire under control.

Lieut. Henderson said none of the partially-finished buildings which are part of a seven and one-half million-dollar permanent building project had been burned.

It was believed the fire started in the flying and rubbed goods section of the warehouse.

Members of the board of inquiry are Majors Roy W. Canblin, John R. Glascock and James E. Carroll, all stationed at the field. Chanutte Field is the army's training center for all its air corps mechanics and radio operators.

Later Mrs. Kavadas filed the charge before Justice Shaulis and the hearing was continued until this morning, when disposition was made.

Another feminine battle of brief duration was reported to have been staged Saturday afternoon on North Peoria avenue and

Cathedral Filled Today At Service For Col. Ruppert

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—In the high stillness of St. Patrick's cathedral a solemn mass of requiem was sung today for Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the wealthy brewer and owner of the world's champion New York Yankees baseball team, who died Friday after a lingering illness.

Every pew in the great cathedral was filled before the funeral service, and men and women stood in silent thousands in the wet streets outside.

The mourners were of every faith and every occupation, but most of them were of middle age or elderly, men with strong memories of the old spacious days which the hale and convivial colonel of another day had symbolized.

Honorary pallbearers included former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Kenesaw M. Landis, the baseball "czar," William Harbridge, president of the American League; Babe Ruth, the greatest home run hitter of all time; Mayor F. H. LaGuardia; former governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania; John F. Fitzgerald, the former mayor of Boston; Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' star first baseman.

In the pews sat other representatives of sports, politics, Broadway and 400—Clark Griffith, the owner of the Washington Senators; former Mayor John P. O'Brien; Herb Pennock, who was a great Yankee pitcher in his day; Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox; Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh, the society leader; Bill Robinson, the Negro tap dancer.

Ruth was found lying face upward on her bloodstained bed, a gag in mouth and her hands tied above her head to a bedpost. Her night clothing was partially torn from her body but she had not been criminally assaulted, Detective Lieutenant Eugene O'Gorman said. Her head had been battered with an axe.

Mrs. Scott who is hard of hearing, woke up and saw the shadowy figure of a man standing in her bedroom, a hand-axe in one hand and a butcher knife in the other, she told authorities.

He struck Mrs. Scott on the head as she struggled with him, and then one of the passes he made with the knife hit her right hand, gashing it.

Mother Broke Away
The woman broke away from him and ran into the kitchen where she turned on the light and saw the body of her daughter lying on a bloodstained bed in the room adjoining.

Ruth had been struck on the head several times with the hand-axe. She was lying face upward, her arms tied above her head to the back of the bed.

The axe wielder, who left his weapon behind, escaped when Mrs. Scott fled upstairs to call for help. He had gained entry to the Scott home about 4 a. m. by forcing a bathroom window, O'Gorman said.

The secretary would have authority to deny, suspend and revoke all such licenses, with suspension and revocation possible only after a hearing. Any person whose permit is suspended or revoked would have 90 days in which to appeal to a Circuit court.

In addition, the secretary would be empowered to examine all records of a licensee under a complaint against it, make "reasonable rules and regulations, determine whether a manufacturer or distributor is justified in terminating a contract with a dealer and to limit the number of dealers' licenses in any community."

Responsibility for enforcement of the act's prohibition of certain methods described as "unfair trade practices" would rest with the secretary.

Violation of the act would be a misdemeanor and penalties, upon trial and conviction, would range from a $50 fine or a maximum 90-day jail sentence or both to a $10,000 fine or a maximum 90-day jail sentence or both to a $10,000 fine or a jail sentence not to exceed one year or both.

Pending appointment of House committees, the bill has been held on the speaker's table.

Relief Client Faces Prison for Killing

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Joseph Scutellaro, Hoboken relief client, was back in Hudson county jail today, convicted of stabbing his poor-master to death with a desk spindle.

A jury returned a verdict of manslaughter yesterday after deliberating for more than 10 hours. Judge Robert V. Kinkead set Thursday for sentencing. The verdict carries a maximum sentence of 10 years.

Seemingly dazed, Scutellaro was led back to county jail where he had been imprisoned for almost a year following his arrest at Hoboken city hall February 25 when he was charged with slaying Harry L. Barck, 240-pound, 74-year-old overseer of the poor.

The defense contended Barck fell on his desk spindle and met his death accidentally.

A birthday celebration for Mrs. Hammoutz preceded the accident, in which three other couples were injured. Mrs. Paul Black, DeKalb, is the only occupant of the car still confined to the hospital. She suffered a cracked pelvis and will not be dismissed for several weeks, hospital attendants said.

Others injured were Paul Black, Miss Margaret Stoltz, Edward Schmidt, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Enright. They left the hospital during the week.

STATE OFFICIALS OPPOSE BILL TO TAX SECURITIES

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—State officials offered opposition today to enactment of a federal statute abolishing tax exemptions on government securities.

A special Senate committee will begin hearings on the subject tomorrow with testimony from treasury and justice department officials.

John W. Hanes, undersecretary of the treasury, will present a statement on the economic advisability of taxing government securities. James W. Morris, assistant attorney general, will discuss legal problems.

In February, witnesses from state and other organizations opposing the proposal will be given a week to testify.

Secretary Austin J. Tobin, of the Conference on State Defense, an organization of state attorneys general, has said the conference favors submission of a constitutional amendment on the question of taxing the income from future issues of securities of states and subdivisions.

Treasury officials estimated June 30 that approximately $65,000,000 then was outstanding in securities either wholly or partly tax-exempt. Of this amount, about $50,000,000,000 was held by sources other than the federal government and its agencies.

In addition to this reservoir of possible federal tax revenue, the Senate committee is studying the possibility of taxing salaries of employees of state and local governments.

and Navy leaders, the Senator contended the projected strengthening of the military forces was a propitious time to make the change.

Senate and House committees were ready to begin a study of the armament program this week. Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House military committee disclosed he was considering including in the program a system of "super highways" across and up and down the nation.

Outlay for the administration defense program, plus regular Army and Navy appropriations, was estimated today as representing 14.6 per cent of prospective Federal expenditures in the next fiscal year.

Proponents pointed out that European countries are spending far more for armaments than the administration here has suggested.

The League of Nations in its latest armaments yearbook gave these estimates of arms spending by other powers in 1938:

Soviet Russia, $3,496,200,000; Great Britain, $1,211,208,000; United States, $1,009,700,000; Japan, $381,024,000; Italy $313,122,540, and France $247,385,000. For 1939, the league estimated these arms expenditures: Russia, $5,408,800,000; Great Britain, $1,512,158,000; Japan, $336,636,000; Italy, $334,714,840; France, $287,671,000.

Sees Room for 100,000 Jews in the Holy Land

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—David Ben Gurion, an official of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said today provision could be made in the Holy City for 100,000 German Jews. In an address closing the National Conference for Palestine, Gurion warned Jewry that "the shadow of Hitler" would be present at the London conference next month. The conferences have been called to reduce friction between Arabs and Jews in Palestine.

Jewry is willing to seek peace with the Arabs, he said, "but there is one issue on which we cannot yield a single inch. That is the right of Jewish people to immigrate to Palestine."

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, addressing the conference yesterday, called on the Christian world to "make good the promise of a Jewish national home in Palestine."

Conservation Is Subject Of Woman's Club Lecture

A crying need for conservation of all natural resources and a suggestion for sponsorship of a wild flower sanctuary in Dixon were presented by Mrs. H. A. White when she spoke to the Dixon Woman's club Saturday afternoon on "Can We Eat Our Cake and Have It Too?" Sixty-nine members heard the speaker, who was introduced by Miss Esther Barton, Indian welfare and conservation chairman, whose department sponsored the program.

Mrs. White emphasized the need for conservation of all resources, including minerals, forests, soil, wild life, and water. In pointing out what has already been accomplished in restoring and preserving the nation's rapidly diminishing resources, the speaker mentioned activities of CCC workers, who have succeeded in eradicating the white pine blister in several widespread wooded areas, and of town-owned forest projects now maintained by 1,500 towns throughout the country.

The latter project, Mrs. White said, is carried on by trained foresters who cut only the matured trees and leave the saplings. "In this way," she declared, "they can have their cake and eat it too."

Mrs. White based some of her observations on her past two summers of study at Itasca State park, under the direction of the University of Minnesota, where she devoted her time to research on the flora of the north.

Her talk was illustrated by two interesting collections, one of mounted flora collected in and around Dixon by Dr. Everett 100 years ago, and the other, consisting of mounted specimens found by the speaker herself in Itasca park. Specimens of ground pine, cranberry, the pasque flower and other plant life no longer found in this vicinity were included in the Everett collection, which may be seen at the Dixon Public library.

Mrs. White made the suggestion to her listeners that they help form public opinion regarding conservation by training their children and themselves not to destroy flowers, trees, etc., but help to conserve them, and that a collection be made of present-day Dixon flora and preserved at the library.

Mrs. L. C. Street, the club president, conducted the business session, during which Miss Barton read the club women's collect. Mrs. Emma Eichler announced a book review, "William and Dorothy," by Mrs. John Weiss, for Friday. Mrs. Leon Burkett was introduced as a new member.

Mrs. A. C. Bowers told of the club's Christmas project, with which they provided a dinner and gifts for 26 children at the WPA nursery school. Mrs. Mary Rioridan mentioned plans for her child hygiene department has for sponsoring corrective work for public school children suffering from defective eyes, ears, tonsils and teeth.

Mrs. B. J. Frazer was in charge of the afternoon's special music, which included selections by Miss Marie Worley's accordion sextet, Floyd Tripp, Dorothy Engel, Clara Hoffman, Minnie Erbes, Robert Heckman, Donna Mae Palmer and their accompanist, Buddy Bradford. Their numbers were "Espana, A Spanish Dance," (Walt Sendel), arranged for a band by Pietro Diero; "Softly Now the Light of Day," a choir arrangement by Galla Rone, and "At Mother's Knee," a choir arrangement by Pietro Frosini.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Bowers presided at the tea table, following the meeting. The public welfare department is to have charge of the Jan. 28 meeting for which the Rev. John Hubbard of Park Ridge is to be the guest speaker.

Beier Bakery,
Dixon, Illinois.

Gentlemen:

I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for your generous co-operation last week during the Evening Telegraph Cooking School.

It was really a pleasure to use your bread at the school—I honestly believe that Beier's, of all the breads that I have used in my various schools throughout the country, retains its freshness longer than the average bread.

The flavor of Beier's is extra-ordinarily delicious. This is undoubtedly due to your cooling process which seals the flavor in the loaf. I assure you that I can whole-heartedly endorse your bread to be among the finest I have ever used!

Wishing you a successful '39, I remain,

Very truly yours,

MRS. EMILY M. LAUTZ.

Americanism is an Unfailing Love of Country;
Loyalty to its institutions and ideals; Eagerness
to defend it against all enemies; Undivided Allegiance to the Flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity.

PREPAREDNESS—FOR WHAT?

President Roosevelt has laid before the congress his request for 522 million dollars for preparedness, citing, as an inducement to action, the unprepared condition of the country in 1917.

In view of the fact that two diplomats have told the present war in Europe is inevitable, and probably will come next spring, does the president foresee the probability that we will be drawn into it?

If so, how might we be involved?
Will we be drawn into it because we wish to sell munitions to the belligerents?

Will we be drawn into it because we shall have lent money to one side or the other, and wish to preserve their ability to repay us?

Will we be drawn into it by the "international bankers,"
or "munitions kings"?

Will one of the belligerents resort again to unrestricted submarine warfare?

Or will we be drawn into it because the poisoned tongues of a few presidential favorites have lashed the dictators into fury against us?

Perhaps the president believes we ourselves will be the first objects of aggression.

Or perhaps he believes that in order to preserve democracy we must go in on the side of the democracies.

It is possible that the president foresees nothing except the possibility that our rights as a sovereign nation will be challenged unless we are strong enough to enforce respect. In that case we believe a preponderance of public opinion will support the rearmament policy. In other words, at this time we wish to be free to carry on legitimate commerce and mind
our own business.

We shall be able to do that, with proper preparedness and the right attitude at home, provided we begin right now to mind our own affairs. Before we begin rearming, however, let us make sure we provoke no assault upon our rights.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S APPOINTMENTS

Mr. Roosevelt's appointments to public office are nearly all of one pattern. He has something of Mussolini's instinctive and also calculated avoidance of persons whose attainments and abilities could be regarded as distinguished. The same is true of Hitler and Stalin. These rules have very good reasons for stopping the development of other careers.
They are not only opposed to distributing honors and credit
but they are afraid. A one man government cannot permit a challenge to arise. All greatness must be embodied in the one man. The old injunction to the usurper is to cut off all the tallest heads.

Any one would be stumped to name Mr. Hopkins' qualifications for the department of commerce, and the same goes for former Governor Murphy of Michigan who has been nominated for the department of justice. He probably has an engaging personality, but his public career has given him small chance to equip himself for the post of attorney general, and his recent official acts, as governor, were to prevent the enforcement of court orders for the protection of individual rights under the law.

Those acts were not offensive to the morals and principles of the New Deal, but in a more scrupulous administration it would be thought that a man oddly proved his fitness as a law enforcer by using his authority to obstruct enforcement.

JUNKYARDS FOR JALOPPIES

If offered the choice of a stiff fine, a workhouse sentence, or losing a dilapidated automobile, most people would take the latter alternative.

Traffic violators in Cleveland are being given that selection, providing they have been piloting a jalopy. The idea belongs to Judge Joe Ackerman who sends the car off to the junkpile instead of sending the driver to a cell.

That's okay, too. Machines themselves are sometimes more responsible for accidents than their owners.
Faulty brakes, a balky motor, worn tires, loose steering apparatus, and lack of good lighting can bring about some terrible catastrophes.

In the junkyard, the relics are of some good, at least.
On the streets they are a menace. In the interest of traffic safety we could use a few more ideas like that of Judge Ackerman.

At least, drivers could look forward to the day when they wouldn't have to swallow the exhaust of these old cars in a traffic jam.

DIPLOMACY IN ILLINOIS

Proof that Illinois has gallant diplomats is contained in the assurance that the drivers' license law may be amended even before it goes into effect on May 1.

Not much complaint has been heard about the principles of the law, as far as the principles go, but the provision that the age of each license-holder must be indicated on his or her (especially the latter) license, has proven a bitter cup.

So the diplomats have considered the possibility of having the date of birth appear only on the application—and that only for the purpose of showing that the would-be driver is old enough to operate a car responsibly. The license itself, in case the law is amended, will contain not a hint of the holder's age; not even the date of birth.

Young people have no objection to publicity concerning their ages. In fact, the younger they are, the more fervent is their desire for another anniversary. As we approach middle age, we begin to think that age itself is nothing to seek after so ardently; when we pass that strategic age of 40, beyond which men find it difficult to find and adapt themselves to new jobs, age becomes a psychological handicap.
When we slip into that age when we no longer compete with youthful vigor, age is viewed more tolerantly. In fact, it is possible to find oldsters boasting about their advanced years.
When we pass 90 or so we even get some attention in the press.

The same holds true with women in business, and even with women in private life. If they want their age thought of at all, they wish to be considered only as old as they look.
Certainly few of them wish to carry a card, designating the year of their birth, for the edification of traffic policemen,
police judges and others.

If the traffic policeman wishes to estimate how many more years he must bear with a woman driver's idiosyncrasies, let him count her gray hairs.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

Chapter 28.

Screen Test.
As Noel was lying in the clouds over the Alleghenies
she was still wondering why she had let Mike Howe inveigle her into this ridiculous trip. She was on her way to Hollywood for the auspicious screen test—expenses paid by Criterion.

Howe, she realized by now, had been a high pressure salesman—
getting what he wanted, rushing her down to New York, putting her on the transcontinental plane
before she'd had time to say she wasn't particularly interested in Hollywood right now.

No one met her at the airport.
That, too, was in accordance with her uninitiated calculations. She took a taxi to the Beverly Wilshire. Because there was nothing else to do, she went to bed.

The hour was one a. m.—just ten o'clock New York time. Mr. Howe
arranged a screen test for me,"
she explained patiently to Mr.
Feigl's secretary at Criterion
the next morning. Mr. Feigl was in charge of productions.

Howe had told her all about him.
"Please spell the name," Mr.
Feigl's secretary answered impatiently.

Noel spelled it out. "I'm at the Beverly Wilshire."

"Mr. Feigl's at Palm Springs.
I'll get in touch with you Wednesday."

Noel hung up on the muncane answer. This was Monday. Two days to waste in Hollywood!

By Tuesday she was desperate.
After a breakfast of coffee and green figs—how she loved them—
she asked the hotel clerk:

"Is Mrs. Douglas Swannstrom
registered here?"

"Yes, ma'am, I'll see if she is in," the impersonal voice answered.

In a moment Anita's high notes
were sailing over the wire. "Noel, darling—how wonderful! Of course, we'll have luncheon. I'm sorry I forgot to give an engagement. Well, there's dinner. Now,
sweet child, don't make an engagement. We'll go places. I'll show you Hollywood. Be ready early. I'll call for you."

Anita, like a flutter of bat's
wings, was off the telephone.
"Da-a-rring! You're ravishing!" Anita exclaimed when she stopped at Noel's suite just before dinner. Noel was wearing the
old white crepe dinner gown—it
was still good. Her rural brown
skin gave the white a soft fleshy
tint.

"We're going places—wait till you see!" Anita promised. "I saw I forgot to give an engagement. Well, there's dinner. Now,
sweet child, don't make an engagement. We'll go places. I'll
show you Hollywood. Be ready
early. I'll call for you."

dinner. Noel was wearing the
old white crepe dinner gown—it
was still good. Her rural brown
skin gave the white a soft fleshy
tint.

"Not Pretty—Beautiful!"
Feigl was even shorter and fatter than Howe. Noel thought he was a dumb little man. But he smiled sweetly at him. They'd arranged, so Feigl told her, to have her take the test with one of their best actors. Noel again smiled obligingly. She knew important contract players didn't submit themselves to screen tests
with unknown quantities.

"I'm sorry, I don't recall your name," she said too sweetly to the gigolo who was to support her in the screen test. He was some fourth-rater, she knew. She was putting on her act for Feigl. He seemed to enjoy it.

"Now, Miss Marchand—" he pronounced it with a "tee," tooth-ing the words—"Alberto is good."

"I see—" was all that Noel replied. She didn't care much. She wanted to get it over with. The set was a discarded one, the director a fourth-rater. Noel was willing to go through with it.

"We'll do the last scene from
'Susan is Waiting,'" the filler-in at the megaphone suggested.

"I'd much rather do the first act curtain, if you don't mind."
For once Noel was asserting herself.

In the end that was what they did. Alberto was a poor excuse for Foster, as he fed her the lines.
But Noel, once in the mood—she was thinking of farewells that had to be spoken—forgot the miza opposite her, the cameraman, the sound technician. She forgot everybody; she only remembered she was speaking lines to an audience

she was saying goodbye to Allison. "I think you make your women too pretty," she said later, after the test was made. Feigl was watching her with more than passing interest.

"You're not pretty—you're beautiful!" the producer responded with emotion in his voice.

There would be several days before she would hear from the screen test. In the meantime—
there were any number of people
she could call. The directors she'd snatched at movie contracts—the writers she'd known in her struggling days had East. She didn't want to see any of them.

Most of the time she had her meals in the hotel suite. When Anita called she was always busy.
The diner Noel waited she had a feeling she wouldn't like to stay in Hollywood. But it was security —that was important! Saying it to herself, she realized that in the past years she'd snatched at different kinds of security—and thrown them away.

Perhaps that was what made her decide. One morning she awakened, disturbed, restless.
She called Criterion with her own connected with Feigl's secretary.

"I'm flying back East today,"
she announced.

Vehement protests assailed her
from the other end of the wire.
"But, Miss Marchand, the girl protested, 'we haven't a report
yet on your test. You can't do that!'" she shouted.

"I'm leaving," Noel was serious.

Without saying goodbye to Anita Swannstrom, Noel took the plane back to New York. She landed at Newark Airport early in the morning, with no one to meet her.
As a matter of fact, there was no place, especially for her to go.

She drove to the Plaza, registered,
was shown to her room, and waited for nothing.

She had some coffee and toast.
The room was warm, so she put on her hat and went down in the street, walking across the plaza
to Fifth Avenue. The wide street seemed deserted. People walked along, yes, but as though weighed down with summer inertia. Noel walked blocks eastward and stopped in front of Denise's shop. She had a sudden desire to talk with Elsie.

Weakness and Strength.
Shortly afterwards they were sitting together in a small tea-
room a few doors from the shop.
Noel was wearing the old white crepe dress. She was looking at him, but he was looking at her thoughts she forgot to ask Noel about herself. After they'd ordered, she confided to Noel:

"I'm going to be married next month. He's not making much money, but he's so brilliant."
"Who is he?" Noel wanted to know.

"Tommy Sheldon," Elsie explained with a glow in her eyes,
which Noel envied. "How wonderful!"
Noel was seeing Tommy as someone quite different from Elsie, the stoic. Tommy with his weakness—Elsie with her strength.

"I think it's grand," she told
Elsie.

After she left her, Noel was lonely. Elsie had Tommy. Anita had Douglas. Everybody in the world, except her, belonged to someone. She was so alone now.

Because Noel had promised Fei-gel's secretary, she called the Criterion offices in New York.
Told them where she was staying
—and thought how silly, as if any thing would ever come out of that stupid screen test.

After a dull evening alone in the suite, eating her salad, Noel wondered what to do with her time. Noel awoke to a hot summer morning. She wished she were back in Gatona. At least it was cool there—and peaceful.

The morning papers carried no
advertisement for "Susan is Waiting." That was strange!
On impulse, Noel took a cab down to the Dryden Theater. The house had a deserted look, as if hopefully waiting for a new tenant. The sign for "Susan is Waiting" was still there, a bleak
dusty outline in the unlighted bulbs. Old Joe would be at the stage door. A strange man lo-lling in the alley looked at her suspiciously as she approached.

"Are any of the 'Susan is Waiting' company inside?" Noel asked politely.

"It closed last week," came the indifferent reply.

Suddenly Noel knew she had to see Douglas Swannstrom. He would be able to help her. She would tell him about seeing Anita in Hollywood—about the screen
test she'd taken at Criterion Studios.

On the way over Noel met Gerald Foster.

"Hello, Noel!" Gerald was obviously delighted at the meeting.
"What about the play?" Noel had to know quickly.

"Just one of the things," Gerald had the actor's pretense of philosophical acceptance. "One week the business was swell. Suddenly it just petered out—and

Capitol Hill

Some Items Behind the News in National Capital Today

(Picture on Page 1)

Washington, Jan. 16—(AP)— Representative Leo E. Allen of Galena, youthful leader of the Illinois Republicans in the House, became a potential candidate for much higher party honors when he won a place on the powerful rules committee.

The chairmanship of this committee, which is a kind of policy-determining body for the whole House, generally is considered to be the third highest honor within the gift of any House majority,
preceded only by the speakership
and the floor leadership.

Moreover, the "Chairman of Rules" as he is called in Capitol Hill parlance, is in a very favorable position to become his party's floor leader. He gains respect and influence from the fact his committee can make "rules" for the immediate consideration of this or that legislation. Congressmen often need a "rule" to get their pet measures before the House. When the time comes to elect party leaders, they are not likely to forget the chairman who gave them
"rules" for their pet bills.

If the "Chairman of Rules" has a good chance to become floor
leader, the leader has even a better chance of being elected speaker. Speaker Bankhead and his immediate predecessors, Byrns of Tennessee, the late Rainey of Illinois and Garner of Texas all followed this route, first floor leader, then speaker.

FEW AHEAD OF HIM

As one of the newest members of the rules committee, Allen appears to be a long way from its chairmanship, when the seniority rule is kept in mind. But if the Republicans should win control of the House there would be only a few Republicans senior to him on the committee. They are Representative Mapes of Michigan, a 14-term veteran who celebrated his 64th
birthday anniversary last month;
J. Will Taylor of Tennessee, one of the few Republicans from southern states, in the House
since 1919; and McLean of New Jersey, who will be 55 in March.

Time, therefore, seems to be on the side of the 40-year-old Allen, who represents a traditionally Republican district and thus has a fair chance of returning to future Congresses.

Incidentally, Allen's close friend, Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr. of Massachusetts, is believed to have had a great deal to do with the Illinoisan's selection for the rules committee.

When Martin was chosen floor leader it was freely predicted that Allen, his "buddy" both in and out of the House, would become his assistant.

It is known that Martin did offer the job of assistant to Allen,
but Allen said he would prefer to have it given to someone else, so that he might seek a place on one of the principal committees. He indicated to Martin he would be satisfied with an assignment to the Ways and Means committee.

But Martin decided, if he could,
he would see that Allen was placed on the rules committee.
Martin had to relinquish his ranking as number one Republican on that committee, to take over the duties of floor leader.

He means it. He feels that it is all-important for a public officer

the idea that he is up there to

"After all," he says, smiling,

He thinks that a public official

about public office being a public trust. He says that any man who comes down here to serve the gov-

"if he isn't a great man: if he's just an ordinary sort of person"— will get along pretty well if he keeps that maxim constantly in mind. He points to Calvin Coolidge as an example.

Coolidge, he feels, did two things excellently: he always looked upon himself as a man working under a deep obligation to the public, and he kept the common touch, the old-time democratic simplicity of manner and of life.

He plans no especial changes in the department. It is up to the head of the department, he feels,
to put able men in the different positions and to set a high standard for their performance and for the performance of the department as a whole. He believes that former Attorney General Cummings did excellently along this line, and that as his successor it is up to him to see that Cummings' standards are maintained.

ASHTRAYS FOR VISITORS
The Attorney General's desk is pretty well cluttered up with papers, briefs and suchlike. While you talk to him a secretary brings
him a mountainous pile of mail;
somehow he seems to be able to read it and sign it without interrupting his conversation with you.
There are two ashtrays on his himself never smokes.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

Activity on the wrestling mats in the Cornell college gym is now at its height as Coach Dick Barker prepares his proteges for the coming season. Twenty candidates form the squad which must continue the tradition of Purple teams which have in the past placed Cornell high in national regard for their mat prowess. Ed Mickey of Amboy is one of the senior lettermen. Mickey has had consistent seasons during his first two years and will lend strength to the heavier divisions of the team. An Eastern trip which will renew athletic relations with the New York Athletic club, Army, and Franklin and Marshall college will be again the highlight of the dual meet season.

Ed Worley rolled 206-203-243 for 652 when the Klein's Hot Shots defeated Rock's Pin Busters in a match game at the Dixon Recreation bowling alleys yesterday afternoon.

Through a conflict of dates the I. N. U. cage team did not play the Rockford Met college on Saturday night, but for the coming week end the gas, light and power lads have a full schedule with Baltic lodge on Saturday and the Falcons on Sunday night. Both opponents are of Rockford and the games will be played there.

Carrier boys working for The Telegraph enjoyed the rewards of a recent subscription contest when they were taken to the Chicago Blackhawks—New York Rangers hockey game in the Windy City last night. Among those from The Telegraph staff who accompanied the boys were: A. V. Lund, Fred Chiverton, Dick Stevens and Jim O'Malley.

The second annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament is again being sponsored by the Daily News-Herald and the Peru Post of the American Legion at St. Bede's college gym in Peru on the nights of Feb. 13 and 14. Amateur boxers in this vicinity are urged to get in touch with this department so that information may be filed with those in charge of the Peru fights. Sterling is not expected to have a tournament this year and boys in this vicinity may be interested in entering the Peru tournament.

The Rockford basketball team won its fourth Big Seven conference game at Freeport Saturday night, 42 to 25, while the Pretzels' strong lightweights defeated Rockford, 40 to 19. Other scores of Saturday night include: LaSalle-Peru 26, West Aurora 14; Joliet 31, Elgin 22; Kings 50, Fairdale 118.

At Oregon Saturday night Amboy won its first game in the Rock River Valley conference race by trimming the Ogle county quintet, 24 to 20. Amboy led 7 to 3 at the end of the first period but Oregon forged a head in the second frame for five points and held the Lee county lads scoreless to end the half, 8 to 7, with Oregon leading. Amboy snaggled 17 points in the second half while Oregon was held to 12. Missman, forward, starred for Amboy with 10 points from four field goals and two free throws. For Oregon Franklin, forward, made nine points on four field goals and one free throw. Oregon won the lightweight tilt, 31 to 17.

Leaf River, of the Route 72 conference, maintained its clean record Saturday night when the players downed the Kirkland team, 23 to 12. The Leafers rallied in the second quarter after trailing 6 to 5 in the first. This gives the victors seven wins in the conference with no defeats. Leaf River also won the lightweight game, 29 to 10.

Harlem high trounced Rochelle Saturday, 40 to 27, in a game played on the victors' floor. Harlem scored 18 points in the second frame and 14 in the third. In the last, however, Rochelle came back for 10 points while the Harlem quintet was held scoreless. Harlem used substitutions for the entire last period. Tigan of Rochelle made 10 points for the losers and R. Oswald of Harlem scored 16. In an overtime game the Rochelle lightweights won, 24 to 22.

Young Pro Golfers Are Expected To Reach the Top During the New Year

By GEORGE R. JACOBUS
(President, Professional Golfers' Association)

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Many of the young professional golfers who have been building up their games during the past few years will reach the top during 1939. They will be battling the long-established stars for the major titles and I look for one of them to capture one or both of the two coveted crowns, the national open and national P. G. A.

There are several who have proven they are not just flashes but have the shots, the courage and the endurance to weather the tests of these two major classics. I refer to such youngsters as Sam Snead, Dick Metz, Ben Hogan, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, Victor Ghezzi and "Jug" McSpaden.

Of course, we cannot overlook Ralph Guldah's ability to repeat in the open or to take the pro crown, but the odds are greatly against any player making it three in a row.

Ryder Cup Team

Both the youngsters and the veterans will have the added incentive of winning a place on the 1939 Ryder cup team, which will meet the British in this country. The battle for places which began during 1938 will grow hotter during 1939. Dates and site of the international matches will be announced in the near future.

Of the amateurs, Willie Turnesa and Charlie Yates are by far the outstanding contenders for the amateur title, although there is a great possibility an unknown may beat them out. As for the women's title, I would say there is a big chance it will be taken by a "dark horse" in 1939, but we cannot overlook the outstanding supremacy of Patty Berg and Mrs. Estelle Page.

No Longer a Luxury

Golf as a whole should be greatly stimulated by the upturn in general business. The game is no longer considered a luxury, and people who once thought they could not afford to play now find the game no more costly than other sports or amusements.

It is the hope of our body that in the near future schools and colleges will recognize the importance of providing expert professional instruction in the game their students can play and enjoy throughout their lives. We offer the facilities of our organization to acquaint these institutions with the benefits which the game provides, not only during school days but as long as they live.

The high calibre of players breaking through to the top ranks and the efforts to be made by the Professional Golfers' association to develop more and better amateur golfers, combined with brighter business prospects, will give golf its greatest year.

Playing Partners Tell Opinions of Don Budge and Ellsworth Vines

Kansas City, Jan. 16.—(AP)—No man is a hero to his valet, and to their playing partners Don Budge and Ellsworth Vines are a couple of nice guys with faults in their tennis just like other people.

Ever since Budge and Vines started their exhibition tour in New York two weeks ago, Dick Smeen, Hollywood pro, and Bruce Barnes, jovial Texan, have been watching them.

"Which is the better player?" Smeen and Barnes were asked today.

"It's pretty hard to say," Smeen replied, explaining:

"Don has a fundamentally sound game. Any boy wanted to learn the game right should copy it. He does everything mechanically perfect, and he makes few tactical errors."

"Then why doesn't he always win?"

They piled over each other to answer, but Barnes came out on top.

"You know," he said, "Vines has tremendous speed. Don always plays a steady game, about the same one night as another, but not Vines. If he has that 'touch' and is in full control of his speed, it's just about impossible to beat him."

"Vines is up and down. Often he plays far below standard. At other times he rises above himself."

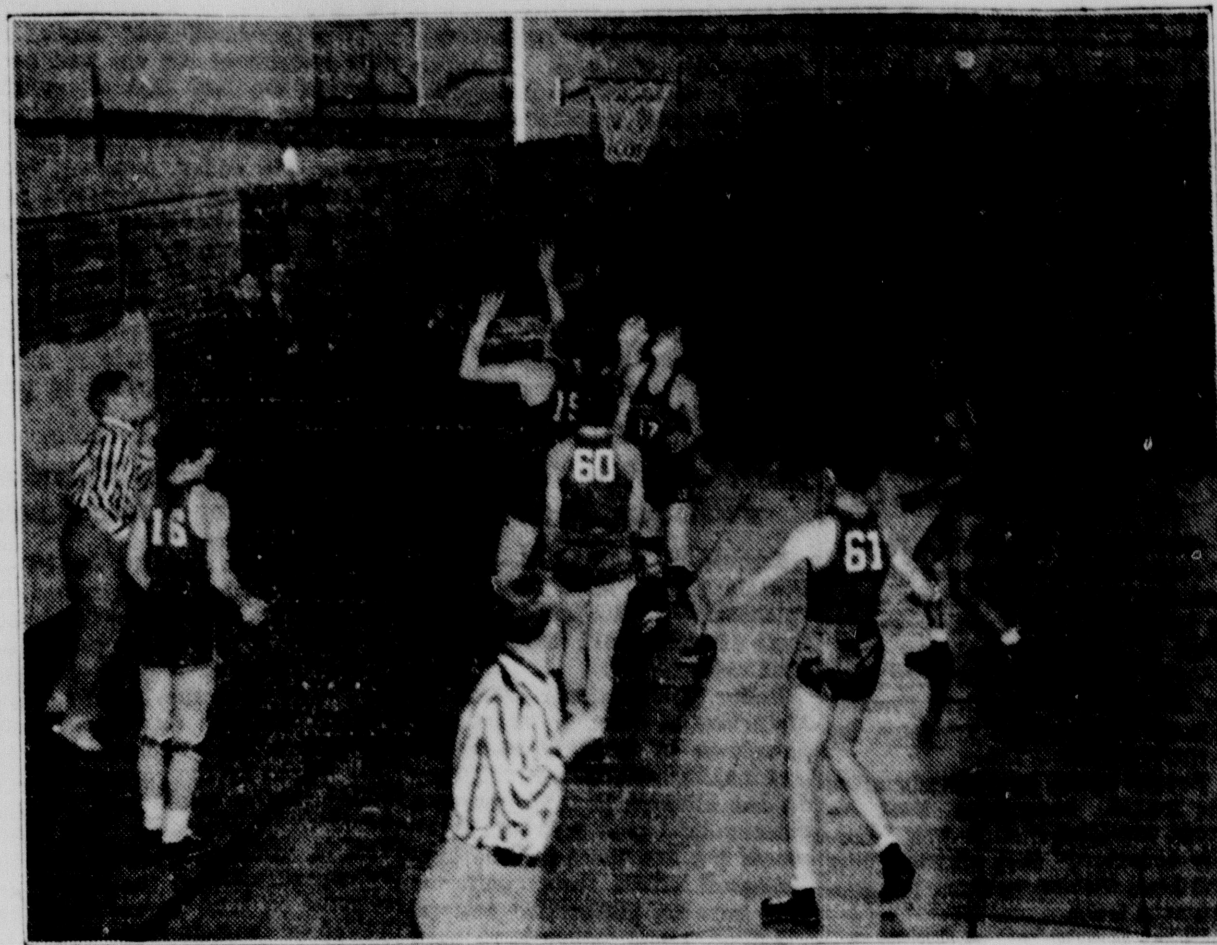

Norwegian Wins Honors In Norge Ski Tourney

Cary, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Reider Andersen of Norway today held the Norge Ski club jumping championship, taking the honor yesterday with leaps of 172 and 181 feet.

Sverre Fredheim, one-time St. Paul, Minn., elevator operator, took second place with jumps of 171 and 176 feet, with third place going to Paul Bietila, University of Wisconsin student, who sailed 165 and 162 feet in the class A competition. George Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., was fourth, jumping 160 and 173 feet.

A stiff wind and soft snow on the 100-foot steel slide and landing hill were blamed for failure of the riders to approach the slide record of 194 feet, set three years ago by Alf Engen of Salt Lake City.

First Defeat on Alien Court

Above is a photographic study of Dixon's first defeat on a foreign court, the second downfall came last Friday night at the hands of Mendota, 25 to 20. Added to that is the loss to the Alumni in the opening game of the season to give the Purple seven victories in ten games for a percentage of .700. On Friday night the locals will be hosts to the DeKalb team here in the fourth conference game of the season. This picture was taken during the Glenbard-Dixon game which Glenbard claimed in a 31 to 18 manner. Captain Olson of Glenbard has just lofted the ball toward the basket, while his mate, Malm, No. 17, is beside him. No. 16 is Charlesworth of Glenbard; No. 60 is Moore of Dixon; No. 61 is McNamera of Dixon, and the boy coming in from the free throw line is Bugg, Dixon's center. The two officials are Bergstrand at the left and Milt. Vaughn in the foreground.

Billiard Tourney Is Started Today Under a New Rule

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—They've pulled the "safety" from the national three cushion billiard tournament which opens here today and young Jay Bozeman predicts that before the championship winds up next April there'll be "an argumentative blast" heard 'round the billiard world.

Bozeman, who hails from Vallejo, Calif., but will be representing Chicago in the long round-robin tournament, wouldn't say whether he was for or against the new rule which will prohibit the 10 experts in the field from deliberate safety play. He's convinced, however, that it will make the championship a lively affair.

"Under the rule," he said, "it is up to the referee to determine whether a player actually is trying to play safe on a shot or is making an honest attempt to make the shot. The penalty for deliberate safety play is loss of a point. But every top ranking three cushion player automatically is thinking of the leave on every shot, and it's going to be interesting to see how some of the veteran safety players react."

The rule was designed to speed up play in the tourney, in which the 10 experts will make two swings around an eight-city circuit and will split $12,000 in prize money.

Bozeman matched shots in afternoon and evening games today with Tiff Denton, who will represent Kansas City. The cities and the players to represent them follow: Chicago, Bozeman and Allen Hall; New York, Johnny Layton and Joe Chamaco; Kansas City, Denton; Buffalo, Frank Scoville; Philadelphia, Otto Reiselt; Cleveland, Charles McCourt; Detroit, Clarence Jackson; Kenosha, Wis., Arthur Thurnblad.

Investigate West Coast Reports of Lures to High School Athletes

San Francisco, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The San Francisco Academic Athletic association called a meeting today to investigate reports some athletes had been lured into certain high schools on promises of free street car rides and ice cream cones.

Arthur Fagin, president of the association, said charges of proselytizing, which assert have four high schools threatening to break off athletic relations with a fifth, posed a particularly troublesome problem for the body in that it has no regulations governing the subject.

"We never thought of proselytizing entering high school athletics," Fagin said. "We had always considered that a problem peculiar to colleges."

Illinois Golfers In Play-off For Oakland Tourney

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dapper Dick Metz of Chicago and tall, rawboned E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., squared off today for a play-off for first money and the championship of the annual $5,000 Oakland open golf tournament.

At the finish of the 72-hole event yesterday, three four-round totals were identical—274. They played eighteen holes today on a medal score basis for first and second money of $1200 and $750 respectively. In addition they divide half of the gate receipts of the post tournament match.

Harrison, a native of Little Rock, Ark., stroked through the tournament with scores of 72-69-64-69.

Metz was dogged by hard luck, nothing unusual in his pro career. On the 18th green yesterday he missed an eight-foot putt for what would have given him undisputed leadership. He had rounds of 69-70-65-70.

The missed putt which cost him the victory was only an incident in Metz' life. He "blew up" in the last round of the 1938 national open at Denver after leading the field by three strokes at the end of 54 holes.

Mark Fry, Oakland, and Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., tied for third place with scores of 275. Fry, like Metz, had an unfortunate wind-up. He missed a six foot putt, which rimmed the cup, for what would have been an eagle 3 on the 18th. It would have given him a tie with the two leaders.

In fifth place, with 277 and leading the amateurs, was Marvin "Bud" Ward of Olympia, Wash.

Sam Snead of West Virginia, leading money winner of 1938, finished well back with 281 and $120.

Adjourn Trial of Man Name as Legion Chief To Find Vital Witness

Detroit, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The examination of Virgil (Bert) Effinger, of Lima, Ohio, named by Michigan authorities as a one-time national commander of the Black Legion, on charges of possessing bombs, was adjourned for 30 days today because a prosecution witness described as important could not be found.

Judge Ralph W. Lindy, of com-mon pleas court, adjourned the case when the prosecutor's office reported it had been unable to find William H. Guthrie, of Detroit, who supplied some of the infor-mation on which the warrant for Effinger was based.

Effinger is scheduled to appear tomorrow before Judge Ned H. Smith, also of common pleas court, for examination on a charge of criminal syndicalism on which he was indicted in 1936 after a circuit court investigation of Black Legion activities.

Effinger is at liberty under $2,000 bond.

Chain Postal Card Opposes F. D. R. Third Term

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A chain postal card asking ten million persons to oppose a third term for President Roosevelt appeared on Capitol Hill today.

Senator Holt (D-WVa) re-ceived one. He said he would introduce a resolution opposing a third term.

"Ten million postcards will kill this third term talk," the card read. "Mail postcards to the White House at Washington, D. C., saying 'I am against a third term'. No signature is necessary. Send another postcard to R. A. Nickell at 143 Cherry, Long Beach, California, giving name of your city and state, only, that campaign progress may be checked. Have five friends do the same."

"Don't Break the Chain."

The card was postmarked Long Beach.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Wet snow which froze on the highways has created a "danger belt" across central Illinois be-tween Warsaw in Hancock county and Quincy on the west to Kan-kakee and Danville on the east.

Three to four inches of snowfall were reported over this area, the state highway department said in a bulletin today. North of Peoria and Kankakee the roads were re-ported clear and dry. Snow also was reported cleared south of Springfield.

President Asks—

early years are very liberal in comparison with the taxes paid. This is necessarily so in order that these benefits may accom-plish their purpose of forestalling dependency. But this very fact creates the necessity of extend-ing this protection to as large a proportion as possible of our unemployed population in order to avoid unfair discrimination."

The president said much of the success of the act had been due to the fact that all of the problems, with one exception, are administered by the states them-selves. He added, however, that in some states "incompetent and politically dominated personnel has been distinctly harmful."

Therefore, he recommended that the states be required as a condition for the receipt of fed-eral funds to maintain a merit system for the selection of per-sonnel.

FDR Announces Creation Of Real Estate Board

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced the creation by executive order today of a federal real estate board.

In a special message to congress, Roosevelt said the board's duties would include recommendations for disposition of surplus real estate owned by the government. He added it also would make recom-mendations regarding "the situa-tion in different communities ad-versely affected by the loss of tax revenue on land purchases or ac-quired by the federal government."

The president said the executive order carried out a recommendation of a special committee named by him in 1935 to study federal ownership of real estate and its bearing on local taxation.

Old Logan Court House Becomes a Lincoln Shrine

Mt. Pulaski, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Purchased by the state for one dollar, the old Logan county courthouse soon will be dedicated as the latest Abraham Lincoln shrine.

Only a few minor jobs remain to be done in the restoration of the building where the martyred president once practiced law along with Stephen A. Douglas, John T. Stuart, and other attorneys in the days of the circuit riders.

The state has spent some $30,000 in restoring the structure's original appearance inside and out.

Constructed after the Logan county seat was moved here from the now vanished town of Post-ville in 1848, the building was abandoned five years later when the legislature designated the municipality of Lincoln—named for the lanky attorney—as the center of county affairs.

The building then served in turn as a schoolhouse until 1878, a city hall and jail, and finally as a postoffice and headquarters for town officials. The state bought the building, which stands in the center of the town square, in 1936.

When the original flooring was uncovered workmen found seat-ings of the main post in the wind-ing stairs and balusters of the jury box and judge's stand. These served as markers in restoring the courtroom where legal busi-ness of the old eighth circuit, comprising about one-fifth of the state, was transacted.

The architect's office said local citizens planned a historical so-ciety to aid the state in collecting furniture and other properties to complete the structure as it stood nearly a century ago.

Expanded Social Security Program Before Congress

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Senators Wagner (D-N. Y.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) agree that the Social Security program should be expanded.

Vandenberg contended, however, in a radio debate with Wagner last night that the present system of accumulating a large reserve from which to pay old age ben-efits should be overhauled and "shorn of palpable infirmities."

Wagner proposed changes in the law, including adjustment of old age benefits to family needs by providing for dependents of in-sured workers; increased benefits for workers now middle-aged, and a merit system for selection of state personnel handling Social Security funds.

Chairman J. Douglas Brown of Social Security advisory council agreed with Vandenberg, in a dis-cussion which followed the debate, that a large reserve was "unnec-essary and objectionable" but added that it would be danger-ous "to cut the financing too fine."

Miss Josephine Roche, chairman of the interdepartmental com-mittee to coordinate health and wel-fare activities, outlined in post-debate discussion her committee's recommendations for expanding the national health program.

"Of course," she said, such a program "will cost the govern-ment millions, but it will save the nation billions." The nation's an-nual loss from sickness and pre-mature death, she said totaled $10,000,000.

Wagner said he soon would in-troduce a bill to carry out Miss Roche's committee recommenda-tions.

HORNER UNABLE TO DISCUSS ANY STATE BUSINESS

Doctor Orders Illinois Governor to Refrain From All Activity

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—A statement issued today by Governor Horner's office said the chief executive, ill in Florida, "must refrain from consideration of all political matters during his convalescence."

The statement was issued by Arthur P. O'Brien, the governor's secretary, and was officially interpreted as a declaration of neutrality in the Chicago Democratic mayoralty primary campaign between Mayor Edward J. Kelly and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Both sides in the Chicago campaign have said they expected to have the Horner organization support.

The O'Brien statement carried the explanation it was being issued after a telephone conversation with John Casey, personal aide who has been with Horner at Miami Beach since Nov. 27. The statement said:

"Governor Horner is making good progress toward recovery at the home of his friend, Col. L. P. Bonfroy in Miami Beach, x x x

"The physicians in charge of his case have issued emphatic orders that complete and uninterrupted rest for a number of weeks is imperative. They have directed that under no circumstances will the governor be permitted to receive visitors and that he must refrain from consideration of all political matters during his convalescence.

"Therefore, in accordance with this strict injunction of his physicians, Governor Horner will adhere to the doctor's orders."

O'Brien said the statement meant that the governor was "too sick to take any part" in the Chicago mayoral battle, directly or indirectly. No official comment was available as to whether the statement also meant that the governor's organization leaders planned to stay out of the campaign. The Chicago primary is Feb. 28.

Couldn't See Regency.

The statement followed a visit to Florida last week by three of Horner's leading advisers. Commerce Commission Chairman James M. Slattery, Tax Commissioner Charles K. Schwartz and Finance Director S. L. Nudelmann sought to confer with Horner, but according to the public announcements, were prohibited from doing so by the governor's doctors.

Nudelmann was expected to return here today, but it was uncertain whether Slattery or Schwartz would arrive.

Meanwhile Horner's personal physician, Dr. Nathan Rosen of Springfield, gave it as his opinion the governor would not be able to return to the Capital until April, and that even then he would have to "take things easy". Dr. Rosen visited Horner last week.

Will Take Six Months.

"It will take at least six months for him to recover," Dr. Rosen said. "I think he will have to stay in Florida until April. But when he returns to Springfield he will have to take things easy. He will not be able to go about making prison inspections and carrying on all affairs of state.

"I found Governor Horner as mentally alert as ever; he is interested in everything that is happening and is constantly worrying about affairs in Illinois during his absence.

"The chief thing that is worrying me about his physical condition is that he is weak. His weight had dropped from 203 to 173, but during the three days I was there he gained a pound a day. He has always suffered from high blood pressure. It is about 200 and should be between 150 and 160.

"His heart is a hypersensitive heart, which is a high blood pressure heart."

Dr. Rosen said the governor is able to walk about with a cane and "takes delight in twirling the cane so visitors can see how well he is doing."

Thousands Ask Arms Embargo be Retained

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Members of congress found on their desks today stacks of telegrams urging retention of the arms embargo against Spain.

The messages resulted in part from a radio speech yesterday by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Michigan priest, who declared that if congress should lift the embargo, "communism will conquer in Spain." Other Catholic clergymen also urged publicly that such telegrams be sent.

Telegraph offices here kept their employees on duty all night to handle the thousands of messages. Managers said the total might equal that received at the height of the government reorganization controversy last winter.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Gets Ring Back

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Vera Zorina, dancing star of the Broadway musical, "I Married an Angel," is Mrs. George Balanchine now—and movie star Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has his ring back.

The statuesque dancer disclosed last night that she and Balanchine, famous Russian ballet director, were married secretly on Staten Island Christmas Eve.

The news—not so much of a surprise to her intimate circles—created a mild sensation in Broadway theatrical circles, where it was expected she might wed Fairbanks.

She and the film actor—former husband of Joan Crawford—had been much in each other's company recently and visited several night clubs together. It was an open secret in the glitter belt he had presented her with a ring.

Confirming her marriage to Balanchine, however, Zorina said she had accepted the ring from his friendship and returned it when her friends interpreted it as an engagement token.

Missouri Highways Clear of Share-Croppers

New Madrid, Mo., Jan. 16 - (AP)-The highways nearly cleared of demonstrating sharecroppers, authorities turned today to a newly-established camp inside a spillway which was inundated during the floods two years ago.

Only one of the 13 large camps set up seven days ago along two major southeast Missouri highways in protest against a low economic status remained. State highway patrolmen expected to have the rest of the men, women and children moved by nightfall.

Nearly 500 Negroes were taken to the 40-acre spillway tract yesterday in state trucks and lost no time in setting up a new camp. Tents, mostly of quilts and blankets or old canvas, were pitched in rows, resembling the orderliness of an army camp.

The tenant farmers called their new site "The Homeless Junction," but declared it nevertheless was better than living on the highway.

Some of the sharecroppers, mostly white persons, returned to the farms where they previously had lived after landowners agreed to take them back.

Giannini The Giant

The Washington spotlight now flashes upon one of the most colorful figures in American financial history. In a series of three articles, John T. Flynn, famed writer on business topics, traces the amazing rise of Amadeo P. Giannini and his myriad-branched Transamerica Corporation into which the S. E. C. now is inquiring.

An extraordinary man now faces a critical point in an amazing adventure which began over 50 years ago on the produce docks of San Francisco.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is opening its hearings on the Transamerica Corporation, the giant holding company built by Amadeo Peter Giannini, a Pacific Coast banking colossus who operates more banks than any man in America.

No man now living epitomizes more the success story so dear to the hearts of Americans back in the hectic twenties. Son of an Italian immigrant... working at night on the produce docks at "Frisco and going to school bleary-eyed during the day... at 19 a partner in a produce firm... at 31 owner of a comfortable fortune and retired.

That was Giannini's story in its first chapter—the story of an Italian immigrant boy who thought he was done with business at 31 and didn't want to be too rich.

However, though retired, he made some really investments and some money with them. He was made a director in a bank and didn't like the way the bank was run. So in 1904, in a single room in the Italian district Giannini re-entered business as a banker with $150,000 of his own money in the bank. He called his institution the Bank of Italy.

Then in 18 months the quake and fire swept San Francisco. Every bank building in the business section was in ruins or in flames.

The fire was rushing toward Giannini's little bank. Commanding two horse-drawn trucks from his old produce firm, he filled one with the bank's cash and securities and the other with its stationery and forms and hauled it all over to his home in San Mateo and buried the treasure.

Next day, with the flames still burning and the great city a smoldering wreck, he put a desk out on the produce docks, sent word to all depositors that the bank's assets were intact and he was prepared to lend to anyone for rebuilding.

That swift and dramatic action brought the spotlight on the huge, dynamic, six-foot-two Italian-American. Thereafter he was made.

By 1910 he had set up branches of his rapidly growing bank and moved his central bank to Market Street.

Then began his real expansion. His reputation traveled to New York. The Italian Chamber of Commerce invited him to enter the metropolitan field. New York's Italian population had only private bankers. Giannini acquired the East River National Bank, put his brother, Dr. A. H. Giannini, at its head and in quick succession bought up several other small banks.

By 1926 the Bank of Italy in California had 289 branches in 165 cities. It was the biggest banking thing outside of New York and the largest branch bank in the United States.

And at this point—perhaps earlier—Giannini began to have the ideas which render him significant, which renders the coming S. E. C. episode significant and which in a way constitute him a sort of national issue.

For Giannini, seeing how easily and swiftly he had blanketed California with his branches, came to the conclusion that one day he would blanket the nation with them.

He was convinced that the small, locally-owned unit bank was doomed and that, as he said later, it was merely a question of time when 10 or 12 parent banks would own all the banks in the country with branches from coast to coast. Of course the Bank of Italy would be the greatest of these.

The branch bank and the holding company bank idea had been catching on in America. Some state laws were passed permitting state bank branches. But the Federal banking system resisted the movement.

Finally the government held that national banks might have branches in the cities they served. Branches broke out all over the country. Holding companies began buying up small banks everywhere, paying huge sums for the stock.

The smaller bankers became alarmed. The American Bankers Association divided into two camps—branch bank and anti-branch bank—and fought the issue out savagely. They still fight it.

But Giannini still holds to the dream of a banking system that will span the nation. And in 1927, when he was riding high on the wave of success in California and the success magazines were telling his dramatic story, he decided to make a real invasion of New York and Wall Street. That's the next phase of the story, to be told in these columns tomorrow.

The largest single user of motor trucks and trailers in the country is the United States War Department.

McNUTT'S DRIVE FOR PRESIDENCY STARTED TODAY

Indiana's "Conservative New Dealer" Has Opened Campaign

Indianapolis, Jan. 16.—(AP)—An organized campaign for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination, apparently the first, started here today in behalf of Paul V. McNutt, United States High Commissioner to the Philippines and former Indiana governor.

McNutt's supporters opened headquarters in a two-room hotel suite next door to the Democratic state committee, hired stenographers and laid plans for statewide organization of McNutt-for-President clubs. These clubs will be extended later into other sections of the country.

Clubs already functioning will elect new state officers this week. James Perry of Indianapolis is president. Organizations are to be formed in each of the 92 counties in the state.

McNutt is to return to the United States in March for an indefinite stay. Frank McHale, Indianapolis, national committee man and McNutt's campaign manager, said he believed the early start, a year and a half in advance of convention time, would help the drive.

"If a man isn't strong enough to stand the sunlight now," he observed some time ago. "He'll never be. I believe Paul McNutt thrives on sunshine."

"Conservative New Dealer" McHale said he would offer McNutt as a "conservative new dealer," acceptable both to the liberals who have followed President Roosevelt and the conservatives who have fought him.

McHale declared he didn't intend to give the Democrats an "unknown."

"The Republicans in 1936 gave the people an unknown," he said, "and look what happened to him."

McHale and state chairman Omer Stokes Jackson of Greenfield will go to Washington tonight to talk with Indiana Democratic senators Van Nuys and Minton on patronage.

The Hoosier-born McNutt, who is 47, tall and dark-complexioned but with white hair, was lawyer, soldier and college dean before he got into politics. He was a field artillery officer in the World War and American Legion national commander in 1928 and 1929.

Elected Governor in 1933 He left the post of dean of Indiana University law school to begin a four-year term as governor in 1933. Roosevelt sent him to the Philippines in February, 1937.

Hoosier Democratic editors first proposed McNutt for president in the summer of 1937. After a year in the islands, he flew back to the United States and was given a champagne-and-caviar reception in Washington. Last summer Indiana Democrats, after smoothing the way by healing a breach between Governor Townsend and Senator Van Nuys, endorsed McNutt's candidacy in their state convention platform.

Many car manufacturers recommend the addition of a pint of kerosene to five quarts of oil (10 per cent), for use in below-zero temperatures, even when using very light winter oils.

It is estimated that the exhaust of all the automobiles in the United States furnishes about 17,500,000 gallons of new water yearly.

The year 1938 ended with a saving of 8780 lives on the highways, according to the latest and most complete estimates.

Highways deaths in the United States will stand at an all-time record low for the year 1938.

DO WOMEN WEIGH THEMSELVES IN PUBLIC AS FREELY AS DO MEN? YES OR NO — 1

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Not unless they knew they are pretty close to the "perfect 36," because a woman either under or over weight does not want others to know what her displacement is. That was why that travelling salesman, who got the idea from the cash register of having the weight shot out on a ticket which only the weigher need see, made several million dollars. Capitalizing woman's vanity is about the surest get rich quick scheme known.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. I doubt it, although little is really known as to how to develop character. J. Franklin ("Dad") Wright of Detroit, railroad switchman, who founded the "Pathfinders of America," and who has reformed more hardened criminals and developed the character of more people than any man I ever heard of, does it by quiet persuasion and teaching a few simple rules for forming better habits.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Of course you are; so am I. This is more true of introverts than of extraverts, because the introvert feels that here is some almost impersonal person to whom he can reveal his problems and worries. No doubt you have often heard two women, strangers on a train, telling things to each other within five minutes they would not have their family or neighbors know for anything.

ter habits. Often in a fire or flood some timid, soft telephone girl who never had a struggle in her life stays at her post, calling people to safety, and becomes the city's heroine. Teaching people habits of work, of faithfulness, of right action—not by struggle but by appeals to their intelligence—seems the best way to develop strength of character.

Boy Scout News

Working with cold fingers, wet wood and combating adverse weather conditions, three patrols of Troop 89 entered into a spirited inter-patrol contest last Saturday afternoon beginning with a short hike from town out to the edge of the east end of the city.

Events followed in rapid succession in order that the Scouts could keep warm. Fire building contests using wet wood and only two matches ended with a first and second place for the Flaming Arrow patrol. String burning event gave the Buconeer patrol a first place, while the F. Arrows picked up a second and third place. The relay race gave the Abe Lincoln patrol ten points for first place which was quickly added to by another first in the axe chopping contest.

Tuesday evening at the regular scout meeting of the troop, four more events will be run off including signalling, paper bag relay, knot tying and patrol inspection. Results at this meeting no doubt will reveal what patrol will rate the Troop 89 patrol championship banner to be awarded to the winning group.

So far in the contest the totals read: Abe Lincoln patrol has 20 points; the Buconeurs, 19 points and the Flaming Arrows leading with 30 points. Full patrols in uniform will appear this Tuesday in order that their group may win the inspection.

Tuesday evening's meetings will close with special moving pictures on several interesting subjects, provided through the public relations department of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co., of which F. A. Hanson is the head. Scoutmaster K. Abbott invites the 89 Explorer patrol and all other Scouts interested in the movies to attend this meeting.

Today Abroad

International News of Day Summarized by Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)

Italy struck a new heavy blow today to Europe's appeasement hopes by making an insurgent victory in Spain the price for settling her colonial issue with France.

With Generalissimo Francisco Franco's armies driving swiftly toward Barcelona, government capital and seat of its resistance, Italy's stand became of pressing importance.

At Geneva, Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish government foreign minister, warned France that an insurgent victory in Spain might cost her dearly.

Italy, he pointed out, probably would leave troops in Spain under the pretense of keeping order and thus would hold a potent diplomatic-military club over France. Under such conditions, Alvarez Del Vayo declared, Italy's price might go as high as a demand for Tunisia, France's North African protectorate.

Some diplomatic quarters in Rome again saw danger of the Spanish conflict embroiling the rest of Europe. One view was that Premier Mussolini was trying to bluff France out of giving last-minute aid to the Spanish government.

How Rome's stand would affect a reported settlement plan was not yet apparent. League of Nations circles at Geneva, where the council assembled today, said Britain and France were considering offering Italy free port privileges in Djibouti, French Somaliland, and Seila, British Somaliland, a share in Suez Canal management and reduced canal rates; and rights for Italians in Tunisia equal to those of French residents.

Capture of Tarragona yesterday put insurgent vanguards within 56 miles of Barcelona on the Mediterranean coast and within 37 miles along the inland front. Insurgents reported today they had captured Cervera, 47 air line miles west of Barcelona. Apparently still barring their way to Barcelona and possible victory, however, was a secret government defense line in which the Barcelona regime indicated confidence.

As British Prime Minister Chamberlain reached London last night from what observers called his fruitless talks with Il Duce in Rome, the British foreign office issued the text of Britain's strongest note to Tokyo since the outbreak of the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Closely paralleling earlier United States charges of "unwarranted interference" by Japan with American rights in China, the British note put London and Washington together in opposition to recognizing Japan's "changes by force" in East Asia. France was expected to follow their lead.

Chinese newspaper reports today that 300 were killed and many more wounded in Japanese air attacks yesterday on Chungking, the provisional capital.

Six Japanese planes bombed Szechwan province, killing 50 persons and wounding 80.

Severe fighting, meanwhile, was raging throughout southwest Shan province, with the Chinese reporting their recapture of Lishit and surrounding villages.

The Douglas DC-4, with all four of its motors going full throttle has a rate of climb of over 1000 feet-per-minute at 8000 feet of altitude.

Brain Twizzlers

Two friends were traveling and, while in a city unfamiliar to them they decided they both needed to have their hair cut. Consequently they went into the barber shop of the hotel in which they were staying. There were only two chairs and two barbers but, fortunately, both were idle at the moment. It happened that both of the friends were very particular about their appearance and, not knowing the barbers, they hesitated as to which barber to pick. One barber's hair was in excellent trim and the other's was noticeably poorer. One of the two friends was very polite, the other very selfish. The selfish one made a dive for the chair of the barber with the good trim, rather naturally, and the other friend smiled and said, "Well, Jim, your selfishness gave you first choice but I'll bet I get a better hair-cut." Why do you suppose he thought he'd get a better haircut?

Answer to Saturday's Twizzler The number was 1. 1 plus 3 equals 4, divided by 2 equals 2 which is twice 1. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The latest figures available, 1935, show that United States' cattle population is around 68,000,000 head.
